I am proud of Islam because people convert to Islam they love the religion and it makes other people it makes me proud to see other people reverting to my religion.

Zara is 13

I am proud of Islam because of how fair and peaceful it is. It solves your problems.

Atifa is 13

I'm proud of Islam because we can all come together on certain days and enjoy our faith as a big family.

Arriba is 14

I'm proud of Islam because of the fact that my religion encourages peace and the way we come together to pray and to break our fasts during the month of Ramadan.

Amit is 14

It is our prophet and all the prophets who make me proud of Islam and who make the religion in general generous.

Mohammed is 14

Many people are converting to Islam after reading and finding out that this religion is a religion of peace and finding out how much our prophets went through just for us to be how we are today.

Tasnya is 18

I'm very proud to call myself a Muslim. I am proud to say I worship Allah and I'm proud to say I pray to Allah. Everything about Islam makes me proud which is why I am a Muslim.

Anon, aged 14

Islam is such a powerful religion. After years of discrimination people still stick by the faith also the religion includes equality which makes me proud to be a part of the religion.

Usman is 18

I'm really proud of the way Islam represents its women and their rights. I am also proud of how fair our religion is and how it tells us about everything and takes in all considerations.

Rida is 14

What makes me proud of Islam the unity. Islam is a welcoming religion that's open to all. Everyone supports everyone. The feeling of community, also known as Ummah, is central to myself, the family feeling of mosque gatherings and community prayers on a Friday is amazing.

Nadia is 18

What makes me proud of Islam is that it holds our answers about a lot of things in life and it guides us through tough times. It is a very peaceful religion and teaches us how it is important to respect and love everyone equally no matter what their race or belief.

Amina is 13

I'm proud of the generosity of the community, when the community and the mosque help those in need and help each other.

Myesha is 18

I'm proud of Islam because no matter what happens people and the community are so respectful in mosques and to each other in general, which shows Islam has helped the community to be peaceful.

Sahal is 17

Islam is a very fast growing religion: over decades there have been numerous reverts, born Muslims. This is one thing that makes me proud as it highlights the beauty of Islam and how Islam is attracting those who weren't born into the religion.

What makes me proud of Islam is that it is not only just a faith but the attributes that follow along. One of the most important obligations of Islam is called Zakat, charity. The way this deals with poverty is fascinating and interesting. Every Muslim must pay 2.5% of our profit annually per year.

Hafsat is 14

I'm proud to be part of Islam it's really good and I love my religion even though it gets a lot of hate I'll always be a part of it I will still love it.

Ahmed is 14

What makes me proud of Islam? Everything. The way we dress, the beauty of Islam, praying, celebrations, Ramadan, God. Everything.

Amma is 13

I'm proud of Muslim practices and the things that we live by: they distinguish us from the rest of society in Britain today. For example fasting, prayer and eating halal food demonstrates strength of character functioning in western society as Muslims.

Bilal is 15

Allah makes me proud of Islam because I like how God guided us to the right path in Islam. We avoid drinking alcohol as it is Haram.

Mohammed is 12

I'm proud of Islam because of knowing the truth people are often curious about what happens in the afterlife or even if there is an afterlife but the fact is I was so blessed that God has guided me to Islam and chosen me to be one of his followers that's what really makes me proud of Islam. The message revealed to us in the Qur'an and being able to answer nearly every question or argument about Islam is what makes me proud of my religion.

Maria is 14

I love how Islam is a religion that guides and looks after us. Some think our teaching is so strict but the teachings are put in place to protect us and to better us. Islam is a simple religion and easy to follow. That makes me proud.

Arisa is 12

I'm proud of Islam because we have a long story of our past. We get to learn about the prophet and you learn how people tell stories. In Islam we tell Hadith of the prophet's sayings and of his life.

Khadija is 12

I'm proud to be part of a religion of peace it provides you with the building blocks to live a purposeful life it is an extremely peaceful religion where we are constantly being told to be helpful and forgive.

Asha is 16

I'm proud to be a Muslim as it is religion of peace. We always help people in need and we try not to sin because on the day of judgement every soul will be asked questions by the angels.

Vila is 13

I'm proud that Islam hasn't changed over the years and I like it that we don't change Islam so that it can fit into modern expectations or like the expectations of a new generation.

Huda is 15

Islam gives me pride: it shows me how to love everyone and forgive not hate anyone.

Fataya is 13

What makes me proud of Islam is that there are no racist people in the religion because we accept anyone.

I'm proud that Islam is such a beautiful religion. It is so patient and our God is all-merciful towards us. Islam respects many people: what makes me happy is how it has a strong and deep respect towards females the Prophet Muhammad [PBUH] married a 40 year old woman named Khadija when he was 25 and she was one of the first people to be a Muslim, with her husband.

Mahmood is 13

What makes me a proud Muslim is knowing that everything I do, I do it for others. When I am happy then Allah is happy.

Ravi is 13

In Islam I'm proud of everything: the equality and the love we have for each other, everyone shows respect and equality to each other. But there's that little bit of people that let us down.

Hamza is 12

The thing that makes me proud in my Islam is that people stand for themselves no matter what people say about them, and that they should stand for justice!

Mona is 12

How Allah accepts anyone into our religion and how Allah loves everyone because he made them and I love how unique we are because no one has prophets like ours in any other religion.

Mohammed is 13

What makes me proud of Islam is how passionate we are about going to heaven. I love how we don't just want ourselves to succeed but others too. I am proud of how we all share these same beliefs and how Islam creates a sense of belonging. I'm proud of how it allows everyone or anyone to join.

Ruqaya is 17

It makes me proud to be a Muslim because my life is much more better with the Islamic rules. It helps you with stress. Also when I go to mosque it is very nice to see everyone reading and praying to Allah. Like for example when you do Dua you can wish for anything to happen like to pass a test or to do very good and Allah might respond due to your Islamic behaviour.

Riz is 11

What makes me proud of the religion is its miracles and its prophecies. In its scriptures it explains many scientific theories way before they were found by a modern day scientists. The beauty of this religion makes it the fastest growing religion in the world.

Anon 13

I love how loving Muslims are towards each other despite not knowing each other but sharing the love of Allah brings us all together.

Anon, 18

In today's world the media conveys the religion of Islam as negative and works to turn people away from Islam but as a Muslim I feel devastated when this is the case as Islam opposes what the media presents. However I am proud of Islam and its followers for the way they conquer the media and how we ignore the false news of the media. I pray that we can maintain this and that the media will open their eyes to see the true beauty of Islam.

Habibah is 16

The reason I am very proud of Islam is the fact that our God is the most forgiving. My religion is full of chances: Allah's mercy is the reason I am proud to say I am a Muslim.

Aisha is 15

I'm proud of how many people there are following the religion of Islam the religion of one of the most influential people, Prophet Muhammad [PBUH] and how it is one of the most followed religions.
